Audi A2

When Audi launched its A2 back in the year 2000 the car was acclaimed for being ahead of its time. A lightweight aluminium body and efficient engines made the A2 sharp, agile and economical, whilst the high roofline delivered passenger space aplenty.

With low running costs, unconventional yet distinctive styling, surprising practicality and an aluminium body that's impervious to rust, the Audi A2 remains a perfect little city car.

Despite being discontinued in 2005 the Audi A2 is still going strong on Britain's roads. According to statistics from howmanyleft.co.uk there are still 16,000 licensed examples of the Audi A2 in Britain, which means a nice pocket of demand for aftermarket replacement parts.

Comline's complete range of parts for the Audi A2 will have you perfectly positioned to take advantage of this demand. With Comline you will beat the dealer, get the sale and make the healthy margin your business deserves.
