BMW X5 (E70)

First debuted back in 1999, BMW's X5 was the brand's first ever SUV and was an instant hit with drivers all over Europe thanks to its commanding looks and comfortable, refined drive.

The second generation X5 arrived in 2006 and was reclassified by BMW as an SAV (Sports Activity Vehicle) in order to emphasise the exceptional on-road ability that belies the X5's vast proportions.

Sharing its underpinnings with the BMW 5-Series means that this model is particularly important for the aftermarket. BMW may well be a luxury brand but that hasn't stopped owners moving away from the dealer and into the aftermarket in search of value-for-money. With Comline, your business can truly capitalise on this shift!

Comline has cemented its reputation based on products that offer consistent, reliable quality and genuine value-for-money. These hallmarks of the Comline brand firmly apply to our range for the BMW X5 and these parts really do provide your business with an excellent sales opportunity.
